Pederick to visit Eyre Peninsula

Shadow Minister for Agriculture, Food and Fisheries Adrian Pederick will visit Eyre Peninsula next week to hear the views of the local seafood and agricultural industries.

“The Eyre Peninsula and West Coast is home to many fishing and aquaculture businesses, along with our traditional farming sector. All are vital to the local economy and indeed the state economy,” Liberal Member for Flinders Peter Treloar said today.

“I’m appreciative of the Shadow Minister returning to the EP and West Coast to meet with local industry representatives to discuss the issues that matter to them.

“The Liberal Party has a strong record on supporting the aquaculture and fishing sectors, so we will keep building on our relationships with those industries.

“They are major employers in Flinders and they contribute positively to the Eyre Peninsula’s reputation as a burgeoning tourism destination.”

The four-day visit, beginning Monday, will include:

- Discussions regarding proposed Aquaculture Zones
- Meetings with the various seafood and aquaculture bodies
- Community forums in Ceduna & Streaky Bay, with the focus on farming, fisheries and aquaculture
